MIL-STD-1790A(USAF)

4. GENERAL REQUIREMENTS

4.1 General requirements. Technical Manuals, as identified by the acquiring activity, provide complete technical instructions for Air Force equipment when developed in accordance with the applicable detail specifications. This standard will govern the process for development of technical manual related data. Air Force Technical Manual Contract Requirements TM-86-01 shall be used to identify the types of technical manuals required. Data Item Descriptions (DIDs) and Contract Data Requirement List (CDRL) shall specify the technical manual related data requirements and their preparation and delivery.

NOTE: The term technical manual(s) used throughout this specification shall be used as the generic term to also include technical orders and related technical publications.

MIL-STD-1790A(USAF)

5. DETAILED REQUIREMENTS

5.1 Development plan for technical manuals.

5.1.1 Technical manual publication plan (TMPP). When specified on the CDRL, a TMPP shall be prepared (see 6.2) and is subject to government approval. The plan shall specify the extent of the technical manual coverage required for the applicable acquisition phase (see standard milestone events within the plan). Air Force Technical Manual Contract Requirements TM-86-01 shall be used to identify applicable technical manual requirements. The contents of the plan are flexible, and the extent of coverage required may be adjusted dependent upon the size or complexity of the program.

5.1.2 Technical manual schedules and status. When specified on the CDRL a schedule and status report shall be prepared and maintained (see 6.2) and shall provide sufficient information for complete tracking through the life of the technical manual development/maintenance contract.

5.2 Procedural support data. When specified on the CDRL a procedural support data package shall be prepared (see 6.2). A procedural support data package should be considered when such information is required to accomplish certain tasks such as rendering safe, maintenance, protective handling, etc., during the development effort.

5.3 Contractor Furnished (Aeronautical) Equipment / Contractor Furnished Equipment (CFAE/CFE) notices. When specified on the CDRL, CFAE/CFE Notices and revisions of these notices shall be prepared (see 6.2). Notices are intended to be used to effect immediate acquisition action of required data to insure that manuals will be available when the components and support equipment of a system or end article are placed into government service.

5.4 Report of technical manual costs. When specified on the CDRL, a report of technical manual costs shall be prepared. (see 6.2)

5.5 Validation. The contractor shall review, inspect, and validate technical manuals. The contractor shall furnish a record thereof when specified on the CDRL. The Government reserves the right to witness the validation, which shall be accomplished in accordance with the validation plan.

5.5.1 Validation plan. When specified on the CDRL, a validation plan shall be developed (see 6.2), which may become a part of the TMPP.

5.5.2 Validation completion report. When specified on the CDRL, a validation completion report shall be prepared (see 6.2), for each manual or TCTO upon completion of the validation effort.
